American Named Chairman Of Reparations Conclave

OWEN YOUNG TAKES POST AT MEETING

Fred Bate, Also of United States Will Be Chosen As Secretary, Reported
FIRST SESSION HELD
Conclave Opens 2 o'Clock In Blue Room of Hotel George—Work Is Begun

BY WEBB MILLER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, Feb. 11.—Owen D. Young, American unofficial delegate to the conference of reparations experts, accepted the chairmanship of the conference at its first plenary session here today.

The newspaper also said that Fred Bate, an American, would be appointed secretary of the conference.

Young confirmed his acceptance to newspapermen and he said: "I guess I am chairman after a long struggle. I am sorry but I am not in a position to talk now."

The conference opened at 2 p.m. today in the blue room of the Hotel George V. and settled down to juggling the billions involved in the German settlement of war debts.

Owen D. Young, unofficial American delegate, was presiding. Emile Moreau, governor of the bank of France, opened the meeting from the chair, but a short time later, when the door of the room opened for a moment, Young apparently occupied that seat.

The clicking of a hundred cameras—most of them motion picture machines and sound film outfits, and the glare of powerful studio lamps met the 14 delegates of the seven conference powers as they entered the room to take their places.

The first half hour of the meeting was taken up by posing for photographers.

American press photographers ordered the delegates to stand up and sit down and the delegates obeyed docilely. J. Pierpont Morgan took the ordeal good-naturedly at first, but finally he became somewhat impatient and walked around the conference table.

Alternate delegates departed shortly after Moreau brought the meeting to order.

An organized movement on the part of Germany for re-valuation of German resources—tantamount to an official repudiation of certain phases of S. Parker Gilbert's last report dealing with the prosperity of Germany—generally was predicted at the meeting in authoritative circles.

One of the conferees' most important tasks will be to establish just how much money Germany can assemble to guarantee interest on the loan planned to commercialize reparations payments.

S. Parker Gilbert, it now appears certain, will be called upon to make a specific statement in this connection. He recently reported as agent general for reparations that Germany's economic situation was good.

SOME DAMAGE REPORTED TO CITRUS CROP

Unusually Cold Weather Last Two Mornings Hits Unprotected Areas

EXPERTS ON citrus growing today were unable to estimate the extent of damage to the crop in this section of the county from the cold weather of Sunday morning and this morning.

On both mornings the temperature was down to the threatening point and orchard owners having smudging equipment lighted their plants and saved damage to their fruit.

If any damage was done, it was to fruit in orchards where there was no heating equipment.

L. D. Palmer, manager of the Orange County Fruit exchange, commenting today on the cold wave of the two mornings, said that it is possible that some damage was done to exposed orchards, but he pointed out that the fruit at this time is better fortified to fight off frost than it would have been earlier in the season. Thickness of the rind and the sugar content of the fruit, he said, made it possible for fruit to offer some resistance to the assault.

"It will be at least three or four weeks before the extent of the injury can be determined," Palmer said. In the meantime the exchange will make a check on orchards and at the proper time will make a survey of the situation to determine what percentage of the county crop was lost, if loss did occur.

Pointing out that a temperature of 26 degrees maintained over a period of four or five hours is sufficient to do damage, Harold E. Wahlberg, county farm advisor, said that on both evenings this degree of cold obtained for four or five hours, and it is his belief that fruit in unprotected groves

VATICAN AND ITALY TODAY SIGN TREATY

Mussolini Affixes Name for Government and Cardinal Gasparri for Pope

BY THOMAS B. MORGAN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

ROME, Feb. 11.—The Vatican and the Italian government officially became reconciled today. Plenipotentiaries for both sides met in the historic St. John Lateran palace and signed an agreement ending the dispute which lasted since 1870. Benito Mussolini, premier of Italy, representing King Victor Emmanuel III, and Pietro Cardinal Gasparri, papal secretary of state, representing Pope Pius XI, signed the historic documents.

The document was signed precisely at noon, an official announcement said.

The momentous ceremony opened a new era in the nearly 2000 years of history of the Roman Catholic church. The Pope again was recognized as a temporal sovereign—ruler over the little papal state—as well as spiritual head of the church, and 58 years of voluntary "imprisonment" of the popes in the Vatican was ended.

The ceremony, clothed with the utmost solemnity and dignity, was held in strict secrecy and only a handful of men witnessed the writing of a new chapter in history.

The first document of the two-part agreement is a treaty of peace. The king recognizes the sovereignty, freedom and independence of the Pope. The Pope recognizes the king of Italy. Italy agrees to pay an indemnity (understood to be about $82,634,000) for the papal territory taken over by the government in 1870. The Vatican is given a tiny state over which it exercises complete territorial sovereignty.

The second document is in the nature of a concordat settling details of future relations between Italy and the Holy See.

While the signing was being accomplished, Catholics in all parts of the world rejoiced, and prayers went up from thousands of churches.

Outside the palace, St. John Lateran square was filled with theological students of all nationalities, dressed in cassocks. There

FREIGHTER RACES TO HELPLESS SHIP

SEATTLE, Feb. 11.—(UP)—The Dollar line freighter Mantauk was due to reach the distressed steamer Alloway, drifting in gale lashed seas 1000 miles off Puget Sound, at 10 a. m. today, according to radio dispatches.

The Alloway, an old shipping board vessel, enroute to Tokyo for junking, has been helpless since Friday with disabled engines.

The steamer Bronnuy attempted to tow her to Dutch Harbor, Alaska, but was forced to let go when the gales reached 90 miles an hour.

There are 37 officers and men aboard the Alloway.

Resolution Is Adopted After Heated Debate

Heflin Bill Asking Advice Be Presented Congress Is Amended

BY PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—After stock market trading had been denounced as "the worst sort of gambling" and "the menace of the times," the senate today adopted a moderated Heflin resolution asking the federal reserve board if it could advise congress what legislation can be adopted to prevent illegitimate and harmful speculation.

The resolution was described by banking authorities in the senate as innocuous but the debate which preceded its unanimous approval showed a general dissatisfaction both with the board and with recent activities in Wall street.

A most emphatic denunciation of the present financial system which permits funds to be used for speculative purposes was delivered by Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, secretary of treasury in the Wilson cabinet and himself a conservative former banker.

"It is an absurdity that congress will prevent poker playing and race horse gambling and yet permit this legalized system of pure gambling on the stock exchange which disturbs the whole financial fabric of the nation," said Glass.

NORTHCOTT TO HANG APRIL 15

RIVERSIDE, Feb. 11.—(UP)—Gordon Stewart Northcott was today sentenced to die on the gallows at San Quentin prison April 15 for the murder of three Southern California boys.

Sentence was pronounced by Superior Judge George R. Freeman in a packed courtroom with 50 armed deputies mingling in the crowd and six guards at each door.

The convicted "murder farm" proprietor took the sentence calmly and without emotion. There was no demonstration from the spectators.

Northcott, who handled his own defense during his trial, made a motion for a new trial immediately after sentence was pronounced but it was denied by the court.

STARTS ON HIS 83RD YEAR

Thomas A. Edison today is celebrating his 82nd birthday at his home in Fort Myers, Fla. He has as his guests, President-Elect Herbert Hoover, Henry Ford and Harvey Firestone. Edison, in his annual interview expressed himself as favoring the additional $24,000,000 for enforcement of prohibition in the United States.

THOS. EDISON CELEBRATES HIS 82ND BIRTHDAY WITH HOOVER, FORD AND HARVEY FIRESTONE

FORT MYERS, FLA., Feb. 11.—(UP)—Thomas A. Edison declared himself in favor of the additional $24,000,000 sought in congress for prohibition enforcement, announced he had found 40 rubber substitute plants which can be cultivated on a large scale and condemned increasing stock speculation as leading ultimately to panic, in his annual interview here today on his 82nd birthday.

Edison's approval of increased Synthetic rubber, Edison said, has no future when it is quoted at 23 cents a pound. He said the manufacture of rubber would be extended to provide pavement for streets, and rubber already has been so used in Scotland for five years.

Edison's interview was given in the new laboratory on his estate given him by his wife as a birthday present, a surprise to him, and covered a wide range of subjects.

Religion, however, was banned because of controversies provoked last year, when he indicated agnosticism in his interview.

Edison declared against municipal ownership of public utilities, but said the city should control their operation.

The aged inventor, who has seen so much of life, is convinced that nobody is happy. He was asked his formula for a happy life.

"I am not acquainted with anyone who is happy," he replied. He has definite ideas, however, about how a young man should shape his life and what characteristics indicate success.

Buron Fitts Says Convicted Man Admits He Schemed With District Attorney

SENTENCE CONTINUED

Judge Shaw Delays Action In Order to Hear Arguments for Another Trial

BULLETIN

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 11.—The Aimee Sample McPherson case was again thrown into the limelight today with the confession made by Ben Getzoff.

Following the confession of Ben Getzoff in which he told how criminals bartered for freedom over the counters of his Spring street tailor shop, Buron Fitts, present district attorney said "a new light has been thrown on a dozen Los Angeles cases, including the Aimee Sample McPherson kidnapping."

Fitts refused to go further into the matter except to repeat again and again his statement that "Getzoff's story will rock this county to its very foundations."

Getzoff, already convicted with Keyes and Ed Rosenberg on conspiracy to bribe charges in connection with the acquittal of Julian Petroleum, admitted his part in that conspiracy and implicated himself and Keyes in a dozen other similar cases.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 11.—(UP)—District Attorney Buron Fitts announced today that Ben Getzoff, convicted with Asa Keyes and others on conspiracy to bribe charges, confessed the entire plot of various actions to free criminals under prosecution when Keyes was district attorney.

According to Fitts, Getzoff admitted that he and Ed Rosenberg entered into a scheme with Keyes to acquire Julian Petroleum defendants, for which the trio were found guilty last Friday, and into another to dismiss charges against A. I. Lasker, financier, accused of making false entries in the books of the company which bore his name.

Trial of Keyes, Getzoff and Lasker on conspiracy charges has been set for March 4. Getzoff, who collapsed shortly after the verdict was returned in Friday's case made his admissions of his own free will, Fitts said.

Sentencing of Keyes and his two co-defendants found guilty of conspiracy to give and receive bribes was continued until Thursday.

The tentative delay was granted by Superior Judge Hartley Shaw so that he might be able to hear arguments on defense motions for a new trial.

No effort was made to obtain the release of the convicted men on bail.

Although the action was not unusual, especially in the view that

Lufbery Pleads Guilty To Extortion; Asks Probation

JUDGE ALLEN SETS HEARING FOR THURSDAY

The perpetrator of one of the strangest extortion schemes ever known in Orange county, a plot involving as "victims" C. C. Chapman, Fullerton capitalist; Frank Baum, Anaheim business man, and C. C. McWhinney, Long Beach millionaire aviator, pleaded guilty to an extortion charge when he was arraigned today before Superior Judge James L. Allen.

District Attorney Z. B. West Jr., filed the information on which Robert L. Lufbery, 45, of Long Beach, was arraigned as counsel for Lufbery. After conferring with his attorney, Lufbery pleaded guilty and asked for probation. The court set 9:30 a.m., February 14, 9:30 a.m., as the date for Lufbery's hearing.

Lufbery sent treat letters to Chapman, Baum, McWhinney and others, stating that he would expose certain alleged conditions relating to them unless they deposited money in small wooden boxes and lowered them over the end of the Huntington Beach and Belmont piers, from where he said they would be picked up. He since has admitted that the things he threatened to expose were entirely the creations of his imagination. He never got any money from his intended victims, according to his confession to West.

Facing failure in his attempt to publish and sell mathematical and psychological works he had written, Lufbery stated that he had resorted to intimidation.

will to work. This boy is safe for a good career."

Turning to two modern scientific developments, the airplane and radio, the inventor said he considered it probable that static would be eliminated from radio, and said he has not changed his opinion that air travel never would become as popular as automobile travel.

The inventor foresees greater prosperity as a result of Mr. Hoover's administration.

Turning his thought to the "machine age," of which he and Hoover and Ford are symbols, he said he believes it will affect the moral and physical living conditions of the so-called working classes, "very favorably."

The aged inventor admitted on his 82nd birthday, after a life spent in research, that he still is mystified at electricity, sound, light and other forces of nature, with which he has grappled in the laboratory.

GREETES HOOVER

FORT MYERS, Fla., Feb. 11.—(UP)—The next president of the United States paid honor today to the wizard of American invention.

Herbert Hoover, who soon will assume the responsibilities of the presidency, came here on a pilgrimage. The occasion was the eighty-second birthday of the one-time telegraph operator, Thomas A. Edison, who became interested in the further possibilities of electricity from the end of a telegraph key, and tinkered with the strange force until he had tamed it to serve the American home in many new ways.

His chief guest today was elected to the presidency in a campaign that had as one of its slogans, "happy homes." Edison lighted the American parlor more brightly and enlivened it by placing a phonograph on the center table. The kinship of the two is a common association in the amazing industrial era which gave the United States and subsequently the rest of the world that complex modern civilization called "the machine age" for lack of a better name.

That kinship extends likewise to other guests at the aged inventor's birthday party—Henry Ford, whom Edison once employed, and Harvey Firestone the tire manufacturer.

All personify the strictly American legend, in which the boy of humble origin springs in the course of a brief span to leadership.

The aged inventor, still young in spirit in the pursuit of new endeavor, will take a day off from his experiments here in the cultivation of rubber substitutes and enjoy himself with his friends.

Hoover arrived at the Edison home here shortly before noon.

He and Mrs. Hoover and members of the party were met at the dock of the Edison estate by the inventor and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ford, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Firestone and local officials, headed by Mayor Elmer Hough.

"Hello, fisherman," Edison greeted the president-elect and the two shook hands.

Hoover smiled warmly and then shook hands with Ford and Firestone as the cameras clicked.

The party retired to the house for a few minutes before beginning a parade through the city.

Under original plans, the president-elect was to return to his night during the afternoon and sail away on a fishing expedition down the west coast but it was learned that Edison may invite him to stay and say a few words over the radio in the time allotted to him for his talk tonight.

Edison banned inquiries about religion from his annual newspaper interview. This was because of a controversy which was raised by an answer to a question last year when he indicated agnostic tendencies. A score of questions touching many other subjects including prohibition, radio, his prescription for happiness in life and other matters were submitted.

PRESIDENT OF MEXICO VICTIM OF BOMB PLOT

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 11.—Stringent precautions against disorder were taken by the government today after a disturbed week-end in Mexico during which the special train of President Emilio Portes Gil was wrecked by a bomb, another passenger train was dynamited, a bomb was discovered in the office of Aaron Saenz, political leader, and serious disorders occurred in the capital.

The happenings came within 24 hours of the execution of Jose de Leon Toral, whose funeral caused disturbances in which at least three were killed and more than 30 wounded.

President Portes Gil, with his wife and baby daughter, reached the capital safely at 1:20 a. m. on a heavily guarded train. He smiled as he reached the platform and was embraced by several close friends.

The presidential train, one of the most luxurious in the world, was wrecked by a bomb as it approached a bridge. The customary pilot train, carrying troops, had crossed the bridge safely, but the bomb was so timed that it blew up the presidential train, wrecking the engine and first two cars. The car carrying the president and his family remained on the rails.

Troops were called out at once and began an extensive search for the perpetrators, with orders to execute summarily any they caught.

Police, meanwhile, announced that an unexploded bomb had been found in the office of Aaron Saenz, a leading candidate for the six-year term for president in the election to be held next November.

The capital had quieted down during the night after demonstrations during the funeral of Toral, assassin of President-elect Obregon. Police made 34 arrests, it was estimated unofficially, and 17 of the injured had been treated in hospitals.

The pilot train accompanying the president to the capital brought the body of Augustine Martinez, fireman of the presidential train, only death victim of the wreck.

The engineer, Ramos Espinosa, was credited with averting a worse wreck by jamming on the brakes quickly, holding the rear cars of the train on the rails. Those in the first two coaches were shaken and bruised but otherwise uninjured.

A report received by the newspaper Prensa said that on Saturday the president received an anonymous warning written on a piece of satin, reading:

"Slave, commend your soul to God. Thou shalt not reach Mexico City."

The note, an unconfirmed account said, was in a woman's writing and was handed to him by a woman.

The presidential train, known as the "olive train," was reputed to have cost $1,000,000. It was of all steel and was built in Chicago especially for the use of Mexican presidents.

News of the dynamiting of the other train was contained in a dispatch from Guadalajara to Al Prensa. The dynamiting occurred between Colima and Guadalajara, the dispatch said, and there were several casualties, but details were lacking.

Unusual scenes were witnessed yesterday during the funeral of Toral. The body was brought to Toral's home late Saturday after he had been executed by a firing squad at the federal district penitentiary. Trouble started then when several hundred demonstrators gathered in the front of the house.

Announcement by radio last night at 7 o'clock of anticipated temperatures for the night contained the prediction that the mercury would not go below 23 in this vicinity, and brought some comfort to growers. But growers with heating plants were on the alert and when the mercury descended to 26 and 26.2 soon after midnight they prepared to light the fires, and did light them around 3 o'clock this morning when there was no indication that the temperature would change to a higher and safer point.

was a general air of rejoicing despite the rain.

Few police or troops were in evidence. One priest in the square was heard to remark:

"This is a providential day—the Feast of Our Lady Lourdes. Considering the difficulties of solving the Roman question, this, too, is a miracle."

The official text of the agreement will not be published until it has been ratified by the Italian parliament. A short, official account of today's proceedings will be issued by the Vatican and the government.

The Osservatore Romano, official Vatican organ, in a special edition issued immediately after the ceremony, printed the following communiqué:

"At noon today in the pope's hall of the Apostolic Lateran palace, a treaty between the Holy See and Italy was signed whereby the Roman question was settled.

"A concordat towards regulating the conditions of religion and the church in Italy also was signed. A special financial agreement was signed together with the treaty.

"The plenipotentiaries were His Eminence Cardinal Gasparri, secretary of state to His Holiness and Chevalier Mussolini, premier and head of the Italian government. Monsignors Borgognini—Duca and Pizzardo and Professor Pacelli, jurist to the Holy See on the one side, and their excellencies Signors Rocco, Grandi and Giunta, on the other, witnessed the solemn act."

CONFESSION IN KEYES CASE IS MADE PUBLIC

Judge Shaw was substituting for Superior Judge Edward Butler who returned to Marin county immediately after the verdict. It came as a surprise to courtroom followers.

Getzoff, admitted today that Los Angeles county criminals bought freedom over the counters of his dingy Spring street tailor shop.

His confession, announced by District Attorney Buron Fitts, followed his conviction with Asa Keyes, former district attorney, and Ed Rosenberg, wealthy broker, on charges of "fixing" the Julian Petroleum corporation trial.

In addition to supporting the guilty verdict returned Friday by the jury in the Keyes-Getzoff-Rosenberg case, he named other instances of "fixing" by bribes and indicated his "slot" shop as a veritable clearing house for men who sought freedom from prosecution.

Getzoff's action was voluntary and a complete surprise to the district attorney's office, Fitts said.

Attorneys for Keyes, Getzoff and Rosenberg had just succeeded in having imposition of sentence on the Julian conspiracy-to-bribe charges continued until Thursday when Getzoff asked a guard to take him to Fitts.

The tailor shop proprietor first told how Jacob Berman and Ed Rosenberg paid $165,000 to buy acquittals from Keyes in the $100,000, 000 Julian Petroleum collapse case.

Berman paid $40,000 and Rosenberg $165,000 for favorable prosecution by Keyes, then district attorney, in this case in which stockholders lost approximately $35,000, 000. Getzoff was reported to have confessed. He acted as a clearing house for the transactions.

Getzoff then went into the dismissal by Keyes of felony charges against A. I. Losker, head of a finance corporation that bore his name.

Just as in the instance of the Julian case, Getzoff handled all negotiations for the dismissal of false entry counts charged to Losker.

Getzoff's admission seemed to make certain the conviction of Keyes and Losker when they go to trial March 4 accused of conspiracy to give and receive bribes.

While Fitts did not go into details he said that Getzoff admitted approaching criminals and soliciting them to buy freedom through him.

"Getzoff told a story that will shake this county to its very foundations," Fitts said. "Seven or eight new and big names have come into the picture of graft and corruption and some of them were in the district attorney's office under Keyes."

As a result of Getzoff's confession the grand jury probably will be held for extraordinary session, Fitts stated. Under regular schedule the jury would have been dismissed February 15.

Getzoff said he frequently proposed schemes of bribery to wealthy people under indictment. If they were carried out it meant money for both himself and Keyes, he said.

A WORD OF COMFORT

Civilization throughout the world today thirsts for a deeper consciousness of individual fellowship with God, and for a sense of His intimate part in every life. Many people are hungry and know not what they crave.
 The blessing hidden within your sorrow is the opportunity it offers for you to draw apart somewhat from the routine of work and of play, to find God for yourself and to interpret Him to your fellows by the life you lead.
 Surely you will not endeavor to step back into your accustomed pursuits without bringing with you something of the spirit of Paradise to which you have come so close.

ASSOCIATION TO BACK PROPERTY IS ORGANIZED

The Santa Marguerita rancho, lying south of San Clemente and containing approximately 270,000 acres of land that touches the counties of Orange, Riverside and San Diego, will be proposed as a site for a state park to the state park commission at its meeting in Yosemite valley next Saturday, with the backing of an organization having members from the three counties.

"The Santa Marguerita Rancho for State Park Association" was organized at a meeting held at the mission in Capistrano Saturday afternoon, when 100 men and women from various cities in the three counties were present to discuss the project. The session was called to order by W. H. Griswold, one of the enthusiastic promoters of the project, and a welcome was extended by the Rev. Father St. John O'Sullivan.

Short addresses were made by Captain Hammer, of San Clemente; J. A. Armitage, of Sunset Beach; W. T. Lambert, Laguna Beach; H. F. Crandall, Oceanside; Bernard McDonald, Oceanside; T. B. Stewart, Elsinore; Mrs. J. V. Kelsey, Garden Grove; A. B. Dixon, Huntington Beach; Dr. W. Maxwell Burke, Santa Ana, and many others. Several letters were read from men in Riverside, Los Angeles, Long Beach and other cities.

All had only praise for the project and many expressed the belief that no finer site for a state park could be found in all Southern California.

The following officers were elected:

President, W. H. Griswold, San Juan Capistrano; vice president, Capt. H. H. Hammer, San Clemente; secretary, G. E. Thompson, Laguna Beach; treasurer, H. F. Crandall, Oceanside; executive committee, Bernard McDonald, Oceanside; Dr. Maxwell Burke, of Santa Ana; Capt. H. H. Hammer, of San Clemente; T. C. Larson, of Long Beach; Mrs. J. V. Kelsey, of Garden Grove; Tom Deering, of San Diego; T. B. Stewart, of Elsinore; James Thurston, of Laguna Beach; Mrs. Albert Launer, of Fullerton; J. A. Armitage, of Sunset Beach; Mrs. Sears, of Pasadena; T. B. Talbert, of Huntington Beach.

The executive committee will be extended by appointments from other centers in Southern California.

Those chosen to represent the association before the state park commission in Yosemite were Griswold, Dr. Burke, Lambert, Captain Hammer and Ferris T. Kelley.

It was shown that the proposed site for the state park has 18 miles of ocean beach and about 227,000 acres of mountain, valley and desert, all in a state of nature almost untouched by the hand of man. It is owned by the Flood estate and it was claimed the Flood estate is not at all seeking its sale to the state.

It also was announced by a representative from Laguna Beach that their own project had informally been abandoned but would be presented to the commission. The projects of Sunset Beach and Huntington Beach also will be presented to the state commission.

VIEW BIG SIX PONTIAC HERE WITH INTEREST

Santa Anas have manifested unusual interest in the new Pontiac Big Six, General Motors latest product, according to Charles Marble, of Marble Motors, Pontiac and Oakland dealer here. The new machines were placed on exhibition Saturday at the new agency headquarters, 509 East Fourth street.

"Everyone who has called to inspect the new models have had only words of praise for them," Marble said. "The new Fisher body designs as well as the many new mechanical features have been points that have caused favorable comments. The Oakland Motor Car company could maintain its original low base price of $745 at the factory."

"Production is now in full swing at the factory and shipments are rolling regularly into Santa Ana and Marble states he anticipates making prompt deliveries on all models commencing next week."

STORY OF AIR MAIL ON AT BROADWAY

Seeming to offer proof of the correctness of Col. Charles Lindbergh's recent statement that this country is rapidly becoming "air-minded," the spectacular picture "The Air Legion," which had its first showing at the Broadway theater yesterday, aroused great enthusiasm in the picture-goers who saw it at afternoon or evening performance.

The audience showed its sympathy and interest for the intrepid flyers of the air mail service, whose hazardous exploits in carrying out their lines of duty, are thrillingly depicted by FBO. Such screen favorite as Ben Lyon, Antonio Moreno and Martha Sleeper worked out the dramatic story which has to do with the struggles of a young air pilot to conquer a fear complex.

Ben Lyon gave a sympathetic and appealing portrayal of the hapless youth and Antonio Moreno was a powerful and romantic figure as the former army "ace" flyer who rescues the lad from himself.

Martha Sleeper added decisively to her laurels by her portrayal of the girl for whom the pilots are silently contending and the other members of the cast, John Gough and Colin Chase, gave well-balanced performances.

Vaudeville numbers which added to the entertainment, and which will continue tonight, tomorrow and Wednesday nights, proved varied and enjoyable, especially "Melody Lane," which was one of the most delightful features imaginable.

In this sparkling revue, a pair of girl tap dancers were especially applauded, as were the three songsters in their luring numbers, especially "Old Man Sunshine," which proved a big hit. The combination of soft shoe and acrobatic dancing presented by one of the youths, was clever work, indeed the entire revue moved swiftly and entertainingly.

RAY H. GLIDDEN, S. A. POLICEMAN, ENDS OWN LIFE

Ray H. Glidden, 39, well known Santa Ana police officer, committed suicide Saturday night by shooting himself with his service revolver while standing in an orange grove in the 1500 block on North Baker street, according to a report on file at the Santa Ana police station.

Despondency over financial conditions is believed to have been the cause for the act. Friends of Glidden, who talked with him late Saturday, said today that he seemed to be in his usual good spirits and they were of the opinion that a sudden impulse prompted him to end his life.

The body was found lying in the grove by Officers Clyde Flower and W. A. Swain, who started a search for him when he did not report at the police station to go on duty at 11 o'clock. The discovery was made shortly after midnight and he had been dead for some time then, officers said.

An investigation was immediately ordered by Chief of Police L. C. Rogers. Sgt. F. M. Dean reported that Glidden came to his death by his own hand.

Further investigation will be made late today, when an inquest over the body will be held in the Winbiger Mission Funeral home, with Coroner Charles Brown in charge.

Officers Flower and Swain first saw Glidden's automobile parked on Baker street. They stopped their machine and looked into the car, where they found Glidden's uniform. The body was found about 25 feet from the car. The revolver was lying two feet from the car. The revolver was lying two feet from the body and was readily identified as that of the officer.

Glidden lived at 905 North Olive street. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Freda Glidden, and a small daughter, Anna Marie Glidden.

 An ex-service man, having served 21 months in the army during the war, Glidden was well known among American Legion members here. He had been a member of the Santa Ana post of the Legion for the last several years and had served on numerous committees.
 He formerly worked for the Standard Oil company here and also was connected with an insurance company for several months prior to his appointment to the police department. He was appointed to the department on Dec. 3, 1928 and had been on the downtown night shift since that time.

Besides his widow and daughter, he is survived by two sisters, Clara A. Glidden and Mrs. Zoe Sumner, and his mother, Mrs. Anna D. Glidden, all of Santa Ana, and one brother, Frank T. Glidden, of Dunsmuir, Neb.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the Winbiger Mission Funeral home.

RADIO ADS TO BE PROBED BY GOV. C. C. YOUNG

That Gov. C. C. Young is serious about the matter of radio advertising on real estate, "which are obviously little less than swindles," and that he will devote his efforts to determining what can be done to curb the evil was indicated today in a letter to Superior Judge James L. Allen, who recently called the governor's attention to misrepresentation of Imperial county land.

"Our real estate commissioner, Mr. Branson, is actively working on this proposition and I presume that he can meet the matter through withdrawal of licenses providing those speaking over radio are members of any licensed real estate firm," said the governor's letter, in referring to the general situation.

"I know that worthless land in Imperial county was being sold on the basis of Boulder dam activities, for the recorder of that county told me she expected thousands of us,ously concerned over certain radio her office," the governor's letter stated.

 "Meanwhile I agree with you that there should be some way of reaching the matter of radio advertising concerning fraudulent propositions and I shall try to find out what can be done along this line."
 "If you have any suggestions of laws which are being violated or laws which might be enacted toward this end and will let me hear further concerning the matter, you will oblige," the communication concluded.

Judge Allen stated today that he is giving earnest consideration to the legal aspects of the situation. Possibility of criminal action in connection with alleged violations of law was being investigated by the jurist, he said. He pointed out that civil actions could be brought by anyone who had been defrauded through shady land schemes, and stated that he believed also that there might be some way in which misleading radio advertisements were liable for criminal action.

URGES STUDY IN COUNTY UNIT SCHOOL PLAN

That enactment by the legislature of the county unit bill, providing for reorganization of school districts, would bring about the most revolutionary changes ever effected at one time in the California school system is the position which has been taken today by Roy W. Cloud, state executive secretary of the California Teachers' association.

Cloud made this declaration at a meeting of Southern California members of the association, Saturday, in Los Angeles, at which Robert Horn, president of the Teachers' League of Santa Ana, represented the educational interests of this city. Other educators from Orange county also were at the gathering, which numbered approximately 1000 educators.

The county unit plan, which would allow the consolidation of a number of rural school districts in a county so that they could unite in providing improved facilities, has been one of the most discussed bills of this session of the legislature in Orange county and California.

At Saturday's meeting, legislators from throughout the Southland were guests of the teachers. Senator Nelson T. Edwards, of Orange, and Assemblyman Edward Craig, of Brea, were present and were introduced.

Cloud urged that the bill be studied for two years before final action is taken. A commission of nine, suggested by Gov. C. C. Young for the purpose of making a scientific analysis of the state's school system, was named by Cloud as the logical body to make this study.

Susan M. Dorsey, former superintendent of schools in Los Angeles, urged the legislators to give serious consideration to the bill, which, she said, would make possible the elimination of the rural one-room school. The one-room school is a menace because of its loneliness, she declared, pointing out that its monotony and isolation are a detriment to teaching efficiency.

Measures which received hearty endorsement by the teachers included those for improvement of the retirement system and retaining of the tenure act.

Big Increase In Motor Transit's Express Business

The Motor Transit announces an increase in the handling of express matter over its lines, according to A. M. Thomas, Santa Ana agent. In the last six months shipments from Santa Ana to outlying towns have increased 35 percent in tonnage and revenue.

This is said to be partially due to the fact that many of the small town merchants, as well as automobile accessory shops have been diverting their buying to Santa Ana.

Many of these buyers, who have heretofore purchased and ordered merchandise from Los Angeles and Long Beach, now are buying in Santa Ana and using the Motor Transit express system as means of transportation.

Several Santa Ana concerns have sent salesmen into the outlying districts and have accumulated a number of new accounts, using this means of shipping.

'POWER BEHIND HERO' TOPIC OF REV. E. W. MATZ

Choosing for his theme, "The Power Behind the Hero," the Rev. E. W. Matz, pastor of the First Evangelical church, yesterday morning delivered a telling sermon from the text, "As a man is, so is his strength," from Judges 8:21.

The minister cited the character of Abraham Lincoln as an example of real strength and true Americanism.

"Every nation has its heroes," he said. "The Jews have their Abraham, Moses and David; the Greeks, their Alexander; the Romans, their Caesar; Russia, her Peter; Germany, her Luther and her Frederick; France, her Napoleon; Sweden, her Gustavus Adolphus; England, her Nelson and Wellington; Scotland, her Bruce and her Knox; we, our Washington and Lincoln."

"As long as the youth of our land sees a real hero in the lives of such men as Abraham Lincoln and follows his example, we need not hold any fears regarding the manhood and womanhood of tomorrow. The safety of our country does not depend on material resources or military power. The moral and spiritual qualities of our manhood and womanhood determine our real strength and security."

"Modern inventions and discoveries of high explosives and poisonous gases in the hands of wickedness can bring complete ruin to civilization in a very brief time. Our only hope is that man will be good and not use the power in his hand. Character always has left its imprint on the pages of history."

"The great need of the hour is what the prophet Micah of old saw to be good man, namely to do justly, to love mercy, and to walk humbly with God."

SIX ARE HURT. TWO NABBED IN AUTO CRASHES

Six persons were injured and two men were arrested as the result of three automobile accidents reported in the county over the week-end. None of those injured is believed to be badly hurt.

Four persons were slightly cut and bruised when the automobile in which they were riding overturned after colliding with another machine near Atwood at 10:30 Saturday night. Those hurt were Ruth Leslie, nurse in the Los Angeles General hospital; Harry Rife, 504 East Sycamore street, Anaheim; and Vera and Wayne Studebaker, route No. 3, Fullerton.

Anaheim officers arrested Antonio Aguedez, 19, of Yorba, and Ramon Reyes, 19, of Olinda, in connection with the accident. It was the Aguedez machine which collided with the car driven by Studebaker, officers said. Aguedez is charged with driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor and Reyes is being held for investigation.

The injured persons were taken to the Anaheim Community hospital and later removed to their homes.

LAGUNA CHAMBER REDUCES DUES $5

LAGUNA BEACH, Feb. 11.—Reduction of annual dues of the chamber of commerce from the established rate of $10 to $5 was decided in a membership meeting held Friday evening. This is preliminary to a membership campaign which is scheduled to start at once. There was no opposition to the change in rates.

The membership quorum necessary to transact business was changed from 20 to 15 in order to facilitate holding such meetings, and a provision was adopted which will give an "open forum" aspect to meetings. Meetings are to be held twice each month instead of each week, members to control meetings, directors to ratify membership recommendations at a subsequent meeting.

The chamber of commerce has had much of its previous authority and many of its duties taken from it by other organizations and by the municipality. During the past two years it has not functioned as it did prior to that time. It is claimed that the chamber of commerce of Laguna Beach at one time was the largest for the population of its community of any in the state.

RETURNS FROM S. A. WATER DEPARTMENT SHOW GAIN OF $17,617 DURING LAST YEAR

Reduction of the operating costs of the office of the water department and an increase in the cash returns on water sales of $17,616.99 marked the municipal water department's operation in 1928, according to a report submitted to the city manager and city council by A. C. Hasenjaeger, following his resignation from the position of manager of the office.

Hasenjaeger's resignation was accepted by the city council with regrets and Harry M. Hayes was appointed to the position, to assume his duties on March 1.

The manager points out that approximately $10,000 of the increase was the result of the adjustment of bills to a dating immediately following reading of meters instead of six weeks later and that some portion of the gain was made by replacement of old meters with new.

"The payroll of the office force has been decreased approximately $1500 per annum by elimination of one clerk at a salary of $110 a month and one meter reader, who formerly read one half of the meters," the report of the manager says, and he adds that a small increase to such an extent that it

The Maytag Roller Water Remover

This feature squeezes out the water and flushes out all remaining dirt or soap. A method of drying which uses centrifugal force, strains the water through the clothes, leaving dirt in the fabric, and the clothes in time turn gray.

The new Maytag Water Remover has a flexible top roll and a hard bottom roll. All parts of the garment are wrung evenly dry, buttons are spared and no hard-to-iron wrinkles are pressed into the clothes.

The Roller Water Remover has a safety feed, quick safety release, and other exclusive Maytag features. The drain plate reverses itself automatically and the tension is self-adjusting. The wringer swings and locks in seven positions.

New Unit Planned For Tustin Union High School

ADDITION WILL COST $32,000; BEGIN MAY 15

TUSTIN, Feb. 11.—Plans and specifications for a new unit to the Tustin union high school plant are being prepared by Mott M. Marston, Santa Ana architect, it was revealed today by J. W. Means, principal of the school. Work on the new unit will start about May 15, according to present plans, and it will be completed before the opening of school next September. The unit will cost approximately $32,000.

The addition will furnish quarters for the home economics, woodshop and mechanical drawing departments of the school. A cooking laboratory, sewing room and a dining room will be included in the home economics department. The unit will allow the utilization of two large rooms in the main section of the school and also relieve congestion in the shop building.

With the completion of the additional quarters the school will have a capacity of more than 400 students, Principal Means reports. The building is to be constructed without the calling of a bond issue. Tax funds will be used to build it. Additions costing from $30,000 to $50,000 have been made at the school nearly every year since its completion without bond issues, Means pointed out. He said that the tax rate for the district is the third lowest in the county, being only $1.41 on $100 assessed valuation.

Several class rooms, a large music room and a cafeteria were added to the school building in 1925. In 1927 the Stanley gymnasium was built and last year a $30,000 plunge was constructed.

FULLERTON BUILDING CAMPAIGN FORECAST

FULLERTON, Feb. 11.—Several extensive building projects, anticipated in the near future, were described to members of the Realty board last week at McFarland's cafe by R. S. Gregory, local realtor.

Gregory predicted a substantial development program in the business district of Fullerton.

"For the past four years we have had a quiet period with little development in the business district," he said. "I believe that a period of greater activity with the possibility of considerable construction is in store in the near future, possibly within three or six months, although it may be longer than that. But it is coming."

"Stores are filled up in the business district and many merchants are seeking locations better adapted to their particular purposes than those now available, and buildings for such enterprises are now being considered in some quarters."

"The recent widening of South Spadra road is expected to have some effect. Since development usually comes along such a street, this street is bound to prove a benefit to the city."

"The subdividing of the hills to the north of the city is another thing that will help in the development of Fullerton."

New Waiter Makes Short Order Long

SAN CLEMENTE, Feb. 11.—He served a short order long and the generosity cut his job short. That's the story of a Travaglini cafe San Clemente waiter.

He told a story of long experience, efficiency in the art of dealing 'em off the arm. The waiter got the job. But the veteran hash slinger, after watching the new man's movements, was skeptical.

Came the rush hour. And disaster for Travaglini. Serving his first dinner the new employee brought soup. Then came broiled lobster. And all the rest of the entrees to the astonishment of the person being served, real, T-bone roast pork and stuffed spring chicken. A Travaglini moaned in anguish as he perceived his whole menu going for a dollar. The waiter lost his job.

And that's how the long order made the job short.

PORTLAND SCRIBE SEES LITTLE HOPE FOR BEAVERS IN COMING RACE; SAYS CLUB NEEDS HELP

L. H. Gregory, sports editor of the Portland Oregonian, is painfully pessimistic about the chances in the impending Pacific Coast league race, of the Portland Beavers, who are to train at the Orange County Fair grounds here beginning late this month. Being an outspoken chap, Gregory makes no effort at concealing his disappointment and, in a recent signed story in his newspaper, hints that this is the year that will just about break Portland baseball interest unless the Beavers accomplish what to him now seems impossible.

Gregory's article follows: "This is no kind of weather to be hopping one up over the near approach of the baseball season, yet that burst of pale sunshine yesterday almost did the business. The sap began to stir and the old arm was itching for the feel of a baseball again. If Tom Turner would give me half a chance to become just moderately enthusiastic, I'd have the fever as hotly as ever.

Turner Tired of Veterans "What a pity that the baseball outlook for the Beavers this season is so far from exhilarating. Turner says it is a 'dark-horse' team, and that he is tired of the grand old high-priced wonders who bloom in the March stories from training camp but fade when the season's grind begins. There is much to that, but on the other side of it no baseball club as poorly equipped as the Beavers are in catchers, to mention one lack, can hope to do much in the dark horse line.

"They need pitchers, too, and another outfielder, and there are uncertain infield spots, but of all their lacks none is so apparent to any eye as behind the bat. That place is one where no second year or youth short of such a born phenom as Mickey Cochrane can hope to make the winning grade. Catching is a job even the best cannot handle without experience, for how can any mere lad break up hit-and-run plays and direct smartly the pitching strategy of a game, to say nothing of the difficult mechanics of catching and throwing?

"Must Be Lucky to Succeed "Turner says he will have another catcher, and that he will be a good one, in due time, but due time for this season seems already much past due. It is near the middle of February now, and the genuinely good ones are hard to pick up at so late a day. In short, the Beavers are not prepared, and it will be just amazing luck, or through friendship most unusual in the baseball business, that hole behind the plate is really filled.

"The big important deals of the other clubs were closed weeks ago. It has been more than a month, for instance, since the Missions did the final running out of their club by acquiring Catcher Hoff, from the Red Sox, and Pete Scott, the outfielder, and Eddie Sullivan, third baseman, from the Pittsburgh Pirates. What good catches are lying around loose for trading now, or athletes of the Mulligan and Scott class, to

HALL'S HURLING FOR COUNTIANS WINS OPENER

Big George Hall had too much zip on his fast one for the Richfield Oilers yesterday and Art Sullivan's Orange County Merchants took the first game of their two-out-of-three series with the Long Beach past-timers, 3 to 1, at the Orange County Fair grounds.

Hall limited the Oilers to four hits and was never in deep water. He had the aliens grounded from training camp but fade when the season's grind begins. There is much to that, but on the other side of it no baseball club as poorly equipped as the Beavers are in catchers, to mention one lack, can hope to do much in the dark horse line.

Santa Ana Golf Team Routs Potrero

COUNTRY CLUB PLAYERS ANNEX SEVEN MATCHES

Captain E. T. Mateer's Santa Ana Country club golf team was dreaming championship dreams today and with good reason. Playing in their best form of the season, the Santa Anas yesterday routed the Potrero club's 14-man squad, 7 to 0, on the Newport boulevard course yesterday, the victory leaving them close to the top of the standings in their division of the Southern California Inter-club league.

Ed Holmes and M. B. Lacy, Santa Ana first flighters, won from J. W. Huntley and "Babe" Julian, 4 and 3.

Lawrence Bemis and B. V. Curry, Santa Ana, defeated Fred Fuller and J. V. Dillman, 2 and 1.

F. E. Farnsworth and Lew H. Wallace, Santa Ana, beat A. E. Witt and R. L. Riggs, 2 up.

J. K. McDonald and Dr. G. C. Ross, Santa Ana, defeated Paul McNutt and H. S. Warren, 3 and 2.

L. Homer Robinson and Hugh Shields, Santa Ana, won from Roy Puterbaugh and Dr. R. A. Cranston, 2 up.

Jack Meiss and E. T. Mateer, beat A. H. Krant and Fred Prentice, 4 and 3.

C. H. Way and R. E. Graves, Santa Ana, defeated Dr. Rankin and Dr. Bullerman, 4 and 3.

Fullerton's J. C. Cinder Hopes Good

FULLERTON, Feb. 11.—That the outlook for the track season for Fullerton junior college is very promising because of an abundance of experienced material was declared today by Coach W. B. Purdy.

In response to Coach Purdy's call, an array of material was doctored. Some of the outstanding performers are Captain Clarence Lang, Waldo Darracq, Frank Del Giorgio, and Thomas, weight throwers; Roy Delby, Hezmalchal, Bogue, hurdlers, and Healey, Williams, Tompkins, Massey, Little, Spitzer and Standley, sprinters.

A star high jumper and broad jumper is Shaffer who took second in last year's conference meet.

Timely hitting and good baserunning played important parts in the 8 to 0 victory of "Slim" Comford's Orange County Aviators over the Morris Cubs of Los Angeles at the Zenith airport yesterday.

While his partners were making almost everyone of their 10 safeties count for runs, "Fuzzy" Page was hurling masterly ball for the Flyers, allowing only seven bingles and whiffing 18 men.

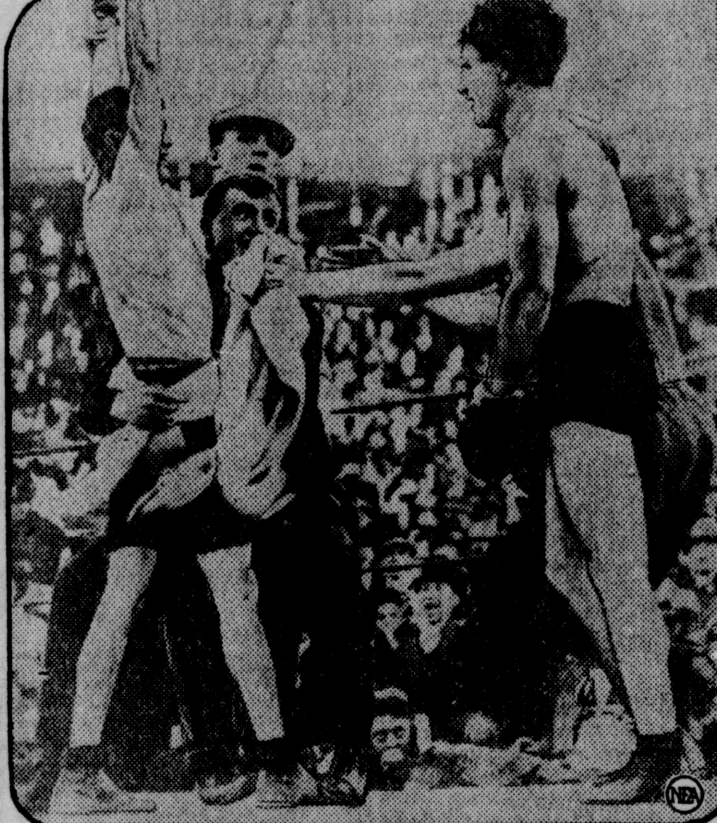

The Aviators scored two in the second, four in the fourth and one in the fifth and seventh. With victory assured, Comford gave all of his reserves a chance, 13 men in all seeing action.

OUT OF THE PAST

Victory! Thousands have thrilled to that magic word in every field of sport, but in none of them does it mean more to the winner than in boxing.

Here is Johnny Kilbane, a happy smile on his lips, experiencing the thrill of victory of the utmost. He had just captured the featherweight championship from Abe Attell, and the loser is walking over like a true sportsman to extend his congratulations.

Joy reigned supreme in the Kilbane camp at this moment. Johnny's manager and handlers rushed into the ring as the referee raised his hand, and the accompanying tumult of the crowd added to the happiness of the new champion.

Attell had held the title four years, having won it by knocking out Tommy Sullivan in 1908. One of the cleverest and hardest-punching featherweights the ring has ever known, Attell fought both lightweights and welters, and he fought as often as two or three times a week.

It was on Washington's birthday in 1912 that the game Attell saw his star set. Although still a wonderful boxer, he had suffered with the passing of years, and in Kilbane he was meeting a clever opponent. Kilbane, however, did not boast a real knockout punch, and contented himself with outpointing Kilbane in 20 rounds.

The Cleveland held the title 11 years, largely through his practice of confining his operations to no-decision bouts. But in 1923 he was conquered by Eugene Ciriqli in New York.

Johnny Buckley and the seconds in his corner were all wrong when they beseeched him not to swap punches with the boxer. And he will argue away the honors he has pulled in nearly every good and bad fight he has made.

Saint 'Bees' In Tie With Two Schools

Santa Ana, San Diego and Long Beach high schools today were in a triple tie for first place in the Class B division of the Coast Preparatory basketball league.

Overcoming a seven-point lead in the last half, Long Beach unexpectedly defeated the previously unbeaten San Diego quintet, 19 to 14, at Long Beach last Saturday.

This leaves all three contenders with four victories as against one defeat, Santa Ana having beaten Long Beach and Glendide having taken the measure of Santa Ana after two extra periods.

Coach Bill Cook's Saints are to meet Alhambra at Alhambra on Thursday. The following week they get San Diego here in what probably will be a championship game.

The basketball championship of the Orange league will be decided next Friday night when the Tustin Farmers and the Fullerton Indians mingle in the Tustin gymnasium.

The way was cleared for this big "natural" when Coach Bill Cole's sensational Tustin quintet, the finest athletic team ever developed in the neighboring community, beat Huntington Beach, 18 to 13, at Huntington Beach Saturday night and went into a tie for first place with Fullerton, which had its perfect record smeared by Orange Friday.

Tustin's victory was slightly clouded by the fact that Coach Minor of Huntington Beach called his team off the floor with five minutes left to play in the second half as a gesture of protest against the officiating of Referee Scott and Umpire Nelson, both of Santa Ana, who always have enjoyed a reputation locally as fair, fearless and impartial arbiters.

Scott gave the Huntington Beach coach two minutes to resume play and when this ultimatum was ignored declared the contest forfeited to Tustin. Minor argued, it was understood, that the officials were overlooking infractions of the rules by the Tustin players. He intimated that he would file a protest over the game with the Orange league but later, it was said, decided to forget and forgive.

The contest itself was a rough and tumble proposition in which Huntington Beach apparently was determined to upset Tustin's title ambitions and Tustin, inspired by Fullerton's defeat, equally as determined to pave the way for a championship struggle.

FORMER CHAMP IS SLATED FOR PROMOTER JOB

By FRANK GETTY (United Press Sports Editor) MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 11.—The success of the Sharkey-Strilling fight from a financial viewpoint—a success now assured beyond doubt—means something of even greater importance to the world of sport, the permanent retirement of Jack Dempsey as a fighting man.

The former champion will never enter the ring again. Dempsey has made his mark as a promoter and his next job will be in that capacity for the Madison Square Garden corporation.

The amazing development of Dempsey—the metamorphosis of the man from a manna—has no parallel in the annals of sport. It is a far cry from the grimy hobo who had his first view of the East from beneath a freight car to the energetic, polished business man who is the center of interest at Miami Beach these days.

Until the success of the present venture was assured, the ex-champion's future was in doubt. If he hadn't measured up to the exacting specifications of his task here, Dempsey might have been driven back to the ring, probably to be beaten by some younger man.

Tex Rickard was Jack's inspiration. He was fighting for Tex and won for himself.

To those who knew Dempsey in his fighting days, when his chosen companions were the parasites of pugilism, the spectacle of Dempsey, the promoter, is a constant source of wonderment. The millions who are working and playing with the ex-champion here, their wives who are vying for his attendance at their social affairs, are not impressed by his former prestige in the ring. They respect a new Dempsey—not the one the crowd followed.

It is difficult, in view of his former champion, to see him in the role of a promoter.

NURMI, BEATEN, TO QUIT RUNNING MILE

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—Track followers today discussed the possibility of Paavo Nurmi abandoning the mile race as too short for him as a result of his defeat by Ray Conger at that distance Saturday night in the Millrose A. A. games in Madison Square Garden.

The slim, blonde Illinois A. C. runner sped by Nurmi on the last lap and breasted the tape in 4 minutes, 17 2-5 seconds—five and two-fifths seconds slower than Nurmi's own indoor record.

Nurmi was left eight yards in the rear by Conger and it was apparent that the "Flying Finn" did not have the reserve energy to accept Conger's challenge.

Torrance Defeats San Clemente, 4-2

SAN CLEMENTE, Feb. 11.—With the score two to one against them the Horrace club staged a three-run rally in the eighth inning to defeat San Clemente here yesterday, 4 to 2. It was the third meeting between the two clubs and gives Torrance the series, two to one.

IT'S ALL SETTLED There is no question in Tony's mind about the coming fight. "Stribling won't stand up under a punchin'," he said. "When that's over we'll be the champion unless Dempsey comes back and would do a little training."

The tiny Oriental, who weighs only 92 pounds, has won his three matches and holds undisputed lead. Cochran and Jack Schaefer of Chicago are tied for second.

GIANTS APPEAR DANGEROUS FOR COMING SEASON

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

(This is the tenth of a series analyzing the added strength of the 16 major league baseball clubs. Tomorrow: The Boston Red Sox—sport editor's note.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—John J. McGraw's 1929 edition of the New York Giants look dangerously like championship outfit.

Just a change here and a shift there and the Giants will be ready to begin the quest of the pennant they threatened to win last season until the final week of the race. Manager McGraw will not have to try the numerous experiments which handicapped the Giants last season. Although the Giants have picked up several promising recruits there will be few changes in the makeup of the club.

The infield is settled except at second base, where Andy Cohen and Andy Reese will compete for the regular place. The solution may be that Cohen and Reese will alternate against left and right-handed pitching, respectively. Terry at first, Jackson at short and Lindstrom at third will complete the infield.

Two Toledo Rookies
Two Toledo recruits, Pat Crawford and Baxter Jordan, may win utility berths as infielders. Crawford, a third baseman, batted .347 and Jordan, a first baseman, hit .375. Eddie Marshall, shortstop from Beaumont, is hailed as a flashy fielder, but a weak hitter.

Four new outfielders have been added to the club, Fred Leach, acquired in a trade with the Phillies, will play left. Tony Kaufmann, a former pitcher with the Cubs who batted .386 for Rochester, will alternate with Melvin Ott, the 29-year-old star, in right field. "Chick" Fullis, a ball hawk from Toledo, and Art Veltman, the former Giants' bat boy, are the other newcomers. Veltman batted .333 for Springfield last season.

Ed Roush, who is said to have regained his health, and Jimmy Welsh, who threatens to blossom into a star under McGraw's tutelage, will battle for center field.

The catching staff will be strengthened with the addition of Ray Schalk, signed as McGraw's first lieutenant, but who expects to catch quite a few games. Frank Hogan will be first string catcher with Bob O'Farrell and Jack Cummings as assistants.

Mays Tries Comeback
Larry Benton, Fred Fitzsimmons, Joe Genewich and Carl Hubbell, the brilliant young southpaw who joined the Giants from Beaumont in mid-season last year, will form the nucleus of the pitching staff. Carl Mays, the submarine ball pitcher, will attempt a comeback after a winter in Florida.

Garland Buckeye, 245-pound southpaw formerly with the Cleveland Indians, has been recalled from Toledo and Jack Scott, veteran right-hander who was rescued from the same club late last season, will try for regular berth.

Three outstanding rookies have been acquired in Harry Kelly, who won 21 games and lost 10 for Memphis; Warren Ogden, who won 21 games and lost 10 for Buffalo; and I. E. Pyle who won 15 games and lost 11 for Chattanooga.

Bill Walker, the former Denver southpaw who cost the Giants $30,000 a year ago but was handicapped by illness last season is said to have recovered from his illness. "Dutch" Henry, another southpaw, who was on the ineligible list most of last season, may regain his form. Henry Boney, a former Florida collegian, and "Tiny" Chaplain, both right-handers, who were given tryouts last season will be back.

SHORTEST AND TALLEST
"Stretch" Murphy, six inches more than six feet, and Clyde Lyle, only a few inches above five feet, are believed to be the tallest and shortest regulars in Big Ten basketball. They are with Purdue.

SCRIBE SEES LITTLE HOPE FOR PORTLAND

fill the gaps in the Beaver lineup, with so many to fill?

Banks on Pirate Aid

The Beaver president undoubtedly banks much on the two players owed him by Pittsburgh on the Larry French deal and on help to some from the Athletics, but Pittsburgh has already beaten him out on two of its best by sending Milligan and Scott to Red Killefer. Nor will aid from these sources be available until well into March, and by that time Portland is liable to have become settled in the notion that it will be hopeless.

"So often have I seen the 'help' the major league clubs send out peter into nothing, when it is not due until late in the year. They are building their own fences first, these major league teams. They take their own time to look over the hordes at their training camps and those that appeal to them they keep, this being the purpose for which they look them over. Then certain favored minor league teams that have players of promise on whom an option is desired get the best of the left-overs. The culls or those badly in need of seasoning pay most of the other debts.

More Power to Turner!

"If Turner can get real help, and put a winning team on the field March 26 around the present skeleton lineup, and show me up, I will be hugely tickled, and first to admit the wrong diagnosis.

"I surely hope that he does, for this is the year of all when it is up to the Beavers to have a winning club, or to cease the annual hollow show of failure. If they do produce a winner for once, it would not take long to revive the old-time baseball spirit of this city, but another loser and a repetition of the ever-so-ancient 14-year-old story would mean the end.

"A varsity football coach is supposed to be entitled to his three years to make a successful showing. Yet how tough he finds the sledding if he fails to show gains of reasonable progress in his second year!

"This will be the fifth baseball season in Portland under the present ownership, so no wonder there is clamor to repair the situation while there still may be some chance when the prospect for the fifth year looks worse than it did for the first. The two things to be said for the present Portland baseball club are that Bill Rodgers is its manager and that younger players predominate."

The Oldest Form Of Insurance Known — Purely Mutual
 Is plain old fashioned life insurance, without frills. Leaves out such items as cash values, extended values, and paid-up insurance values, which represent such a large part of the premium of the usual investment form of life insurance, but which add nothing to the value of the policy to the insured at death.

Is pure protection, at cost. You make your savings in any of the various ways offered in this day and age which pay a higher rate of interest return than investment life insurance.

Is Non-Medical, Requiring Only A Statement of First Class
 Health and Physical Condition

In incontestable from date of issue except for suicide first year or for fraud. It is free from restrictions as to resident, travel, occupation, place or manner of death.

Members are not liable for any debts of the Association. The only obligation is to pay the dues and mortuary calls. Failure to pay such, lapses the insurance and terminates membership in the Association.

Is offered as additional low cost protection to those already carrying life insurance, and as a much needed form of protection to those who feel themselves unable to carry the higher priced forms of investment life insurance.

Heartily approved by bankers, professional and business men and women.

Can You Afford to Pass Up This Opportunity?

Is your wife and family protected, or will they have to pay in sacrifice for your neglect? This announcement is of great importance to you—if you have a family—wife and little children—a mother grown old, or a father enfeebled by age. It is an unpleasant thought but one that none of us can escape—if you have failed to provide for that great emergency that so often leaves families destitute and forces them immediately out in the world to find some way to meet their bills, before they have fully recovered from their altered condition.

If the unexpected should happen, wouldn't it be a splendid thing to leave them enough to safeguard their independence during that heart-breaking period of readjustment?

So that she will not be broken down by the burden of debt that so often follows the blow of death. Why not bridge that gap now, in advance, for her sake?

POLISH BOTTLE LABELS MUST TELL CONTENTS

George McPhee, county sealer of weights and measures, today had completed conferences and adjustments with manufacturers of an auto body polish that will result in bottles of the commodity containing the liquid measurement indicated on labels.

McPhee's latest accomplishment was that of forcing a large manufacturing concern to observe the state net container law by printing on the label of its product the amount of polish contained in bottles it distributes.

In this particular instance it was found that the company had for many years been manufacturing and distributing its product without indicating the amount of polish in its containers—and the concern is a California company. The bottles of this company were supposed to contain 16 ounces of liquid, but investigations by McPhee revealed that the quantity was less than 15 ounces.

Pointing out that on the basis of the price quoted for the product the shortage was the equivalent of six cents on each bottle, McPhee said the company had agreed to make its product legal by indicating the quantity on the label. Fifteen ounces will be the quantity indicated and the firm will see that each bottle contains a full 15 ounces.

Adjustments have been made with a number of polish producing companies, McPhee stated, and he is certain that in the future bottles will contain the exact quantity indicated on the labels.

"It is the policy of the department of weights and measures to give manufacturers an opportunity to conform to the law by adjusting their containers to the size necessary to hold the amount indicated on labels," McPhee said, in explanation of his failure to bring the violators into court.

Pointing out that there is little probability of prices being changed on these products because of the discoveries made, McPhee said it was certain, however, that consumers in the future would be getting the quantity they expected when buying.

The county sealer of weights and measures declared that his department is keenly on the alert in keeping tabs on all kinds of merchandise to see that weights and measurements are as represented.

McPhee's office, in the flood control office building on North Sycamore street, is virtually filled with "junk" garnered on inspection tours. The "junk" consists of measuring and weighing equipment that has been found to be incorrect.

GROWERS WILL HEAR EXPERTS ON SOIL, TREES

The course of lectures and demonstrations scheduled for the citrus and walnut growers' extension school this week in Anaheim will be handled by a qualified group of soil and tree specialists, who are familiar with Orange county and Southern California orchard problems.

The staff includes L. D. Batchelor, horticulturist, citrus experiment station; W. B. Hooper, walnut extension specialist; M. H. Kimball, assistant farm advisor of Los Angeles county; W. W. Robbins, professor of botany, university farm, Davis; W. R. Schoonover, citrus extension specialist; W. H. Wright, deputy horticultural commissioner, Orange county; R. S. Woglum, entomologist, California Fruit Growers' exchange, and Harold E. Wahlberg, farm advisor, Orange county.

Subjects which will be considered include soil management, cultivation, irrigation, fertilization, pest control, the economic status of the citrus industry and the use and management of windbreaks.

No fee will be charged, but those attending are requested to register for the course. All growers and those interested in the citrus industry are invited to attend. Each discussion will be more or less complete in itself, but it is planned to carry out the school idea, making the later lectures dependent on the subject matter presented earlier in the course. Consequently, the most value will be gotten out of the course by regular attendance.

The four days' sessions will be held in the auditorium of the Anaheim high school, starting at 9:30 tomorrow morning.

$50,286,581.54 ON DEPOSIT IN COUNTY BANKS

The 23 banks of Orange county started the new year with the tidy sum of $50,286,581.54 in deposits, thus carrying out the gradual increase that has been shown from year to year. That the people of the county are practicing thrift is evidenced by the fact that of the above the savings departments represent a total of $14,943,494.90, according to a compilation made by V. D. Johnson, advertising manager for the county.

The 11 banks reporting for 1929 showed deposits of $15,091,700 and for 1928, $21,640,575.53, a gain of $6,548,875.53.

Another form of saving which rapidly is mounting in figures is that shown in the nine Building and Loan associations of Orange county, the total resources of which are $12,107,083.41. These nine associations gained nearly $800,000 since Sept. 1, 1928.

With almost a record size orange crop on the trees, although the fruit is small in size, and with increasing activity along commercial lines, the people of Orange county are looking forward to a prosperous year in all avenues of activity.

CLUB OFFICERS TO BE ELECTED NEXT SATURDAY

Half a hundred junior aviation fans in Santa Ana today are eagerly awaiting the launching of the airplane model contest in which they will compete for the honor of being sent to Detroit with their planes to represent this city in a national contest. Announcement of the contest was made Saturday in the Walker theater, where between 40 and 50 boys became honorary members of a junior aviation club, sponsored by The Register and 20-30 club of Santa Ana.

Today throughout the city these boys are getting ready to build "the best model planes" ever flown in Santa Ana and everyone of them is hoping to win one of the two trips to Detroit. Not only that, but they are keeping in mind the fact that the three winners in Detroit will be sent to Europe for a world contest.

Next Saturday the boys will take time off from planning their model ships and will gather in the Walker theater again for the purpose of electing officers for the club. Then they will make a trip to the Eddie Martin airport. It is expected, where they will study the construction of various ships.

The club is a national affair and has for its honorary president Com. Richard E. Byrd, who now is on an expedition to the South Pole. The "Herb Miller," he stated, "is a 'Square-Shooter' in every way and is more than fair in all business matters. He is prompt and fair in considering tire complaints and adjustments and gives me a 5 to 15-minute service on tire deliveries. I am surely sold on MILLER SERVICE."

The WOMAN'S DAY

by ALLENE SUMNER

Queen Marie, it is said, is sending gifts and love and well wishes to the former Crown Prince Carol, her oldest son, banished from the kingdom when he renounced his throne for a woman. The story has it that "Europe's Most Beautiful Queen" is playing second second fiddle in her country, with the peasants' adulation given Princess Helen, mother of small King Michael.

SHE WAS IT

The queen was it when King Ferdinand was alive. But with him gone, the Bratiano brothers, powers of the regency, proceeded to ignore her, and the people were quick to follow suit. Even her son Nicholas who represents her on the regency is unable to gain any recognition.

So Marie, they say, is attempting a coup d'etat—planning to bring Carol back and confound the government.

What the world owes to this Marie for her eternal providing us with a comic opera soldier-of-fortune skit in real life! We need our queens when they live up to the story book traditions. We sneaker, but how we do enjoy 'em!

The queen, bless her, never travels without her crown, either!

"MISTRESS" AND "MAID!" Will the fact that the words "mistress" and "maid" are no longer used to express the relationship between employer and domestic employee make much difference to our much-discussed "servant problem?" The industrial department of the National Y. W. C. A. recently called a conference on that problem and suggested that an elimination of those words might help.

Perhaps it would. The substitution of the word "maid" for "hired girl" was much more easily procured than a new-fashioned "maid."

The real servant problem is because there is a queer social stigma attached to housework. Just why this should be so is a puzzle. Just why it is more ignoble to wash dishes and peel potatoes than to count nuts and bolts is a mystery.

MAYBE HE'S RIGHT

A Detroit ex-husband haled into court because of failure to pay alimony, explained that his wife had crippled his wage-earning capacity by causing his bootlegging establishment to be raided. How, then, could the lady expect her money? It almost seems as if he had a real argument at that!

Each Tot and Tyn waved a hand. The sea man then came up on land. The whole bunch laughed to see him wave. It was a funny sight. He splashed the water here and there, and really didn't seem to care that he was wringing wet. He shouted, "Everything's all right."

"I always live down in the sea. That is the place I like to be. The fish all know me very well and they all like me, too. My house is 'way down in the sand. Say, you should see it. It is grand. If you would like to go down there, that's what we all will do."

"Oh, no," cried Clowny. "I'm afraid. My Tynmites were never made to live beneath the water. We must be out in the air. Of course we'd like to see your home, but if there's one place we can't roam it's down beneath the waves. You see we really wouldn't dare."

"I guess you're right," the man replied. "You lads had better stay outside. I'm going to sit down on the bank and you all may as well sit down and join me for a while. I'm sure that I can make you smile."

spades, Declarer takes with the Queen of spades.

The Correct Method: Applying the rule of fourth best, Declarer knows East holds three spades. The hold-up is necessary to exhaust East of that suit. Declarer should refuse to take the first trick. East will continue to play spades and the King of spades will force Ace of spades. When Declarer wins the third trick with Queen of spades all finesses are taken toward East and game must be made.

The Principle: The ace of a suit is not absolutely necessary to execute the hold-up.

The play was written by George Brooks and Walter Lister, ex-soldiers and newspaper men. Preceding the reading of the play, the Rev. At the business meeting the nominating committee was elected as follows: from the board of directors, Mrs. J. The musical program of the afternoon as presented by Miss Shepherdson was a group of songs from the "Cycle of Life," sung by Miss Ruth Tilton, who is in charge of the music department at Fullerton union high school.

SPEEDY COMEDY IS ON BILL AT WALKER

A decidedly friendly reception was given Charles "Buddy" Rogers' second starring picture, "Someone to Love," when it opened its local run yesterday at the West Coast-Walker theater. Hundreds who had seen his first picture, "Varsity," were on hand for this second enjoyable offering, in which lovely Mary Brian does some excellent work in support of the young star.

"Someone to Love" is a fast-moving story with many entertainment angles included in its cast, its direction and its photography. The appealing personality of Paramount's newest star, the winning portrayal of Mary Brian, the comedy provided by William Austin and Jack Oakie, and a story which bubbles with life, laughter and love combine to produce an entertainment de luxe with a smashing climax.

Sharing interest with the picture was the entertaining Fanchon and Marco "Art Objects Idea," which was so highly lauded when it appeared in Los Angeles. Lavishly staged and costumed, the idea is one of the loveliest yet presented by this artistic pair. Individual artists doing excellent work included Helen and Frank in comedy and acrobatic dancing; Robert Stickney, Elmer Herling, Helene Burke, and of course, the "Sunkist Beauties," who are always a popular feature of the Fanchon and Marco productions.

WEST END SHOW IS ENTERTAINING

Rex, "King of Wild Horses" whose thundering hoofs brought a new thrill to screen fans, will be seen tonight at the West End theater, in the final local showing of his latest starring picture, "Wild Blood." Rex proved to be at his wildest in this swift moving tale of a gold miner and his pretty daughter, and a villain who is foiled by Rex himself.

Tomorrow and Wednesday, the West End screen will present the latest Marian Davies and William Haines co-starring picture, "Show People," which scored such a big success. The cast of "Show People" includes Polly Moran, Dell Henderson, Harry Gribbon, Tenen Holz and Paul Ralli.

But since in the story, Miss Davies will be shown visiting one of the big stages at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio, the audience will be given flashing glimpses of other screen stars, including William Haines and Anita Page working on "Telling the World," Joan Crawford, John Mack Brown and Dorothy Sebastian in "Our Dancing Daughters," and other well-known screen celebrities at work.

Dempsey as the chosen escort of millionaires' wives and daughters at the numerous social functions of an exclusive community, Dempsey, with a thousand and one things on his mind, still unaffected by the prize ring he once knew and a ready hand shake for everyone.

Radio talks, business conferences, public appearances, dressy dinners, family parties, flying trips across the peninsula in the interests of the fight, these make up Jack's busy days. But it is in his intimate contacts with the men of solid financial worth that he has scored his most important success.

And so the prize ring is to lose its most colorful figure of modern times. Dempsey is going on to bigger things.

LET THE GOVERNMENT PRESERVE

We note that there is a proposition in Congress to preserve the old Ford theater in which Lincoln was shot as a memorial to the martyred president. It is objected to by one of the Congressmen on the ground that it would be a memorial to the assassin of Lincoln.

We doubt if this is good ground for opposition to the proposal. Whatever recalls to our memory the story of the assassin's act fills us with horror of his deed, and a greater reverence for our Great Emancipator. No one can prevent the name of a betrayer of a great cause, or the assassin of a great man from having his place in history. But who wants such a place?

On the little hilltop out on the edge of Jerusalem the most tragic event which has ever affected the world's civilization took place in the crucifixion of Jesus Christ. The means of that crucifixion, the cross, has become a symbol of religion, of sacrifice, and of devotion, that has transformed the lives of millions, and yet in a sense it commemorates the vile betrayer, Judas, as it does the heroic sacrifices of the Great Prophet.

The same is true of West Point. We never pass it but what we think of Benedict Arnold and the words of Washington as he said to Hamilton, on learning of the news of the betrayal, "Whom can we trust now?"

West Point and Tarrytown bring to our minds the story of the traitor none the less than the story of the heroism of the Revolution. But the fact that the names of these destroyers have come down through the years freighted with all of the contumely that they can carry certainly does not suggest to any boy or girl that their deeds were worthy of emulation.

So it will be with Ford's theater, if it is preserved and in it placed the many mementos of the life of the martyred Lincoln. There could hardly be conceived in Washington, at least, a more appropriate place, for here it was that in the flush of health and happiness, at the close of a great war with a marvelous service rendered, he met the missile of malice and of hatred, and brought into the most startling contrast the two great causes of action, right and wrong.

Spain has been having a revolution. Can spring be far behind?

A LONG WAY TO GO

At the burial of the assassin, Jose de Leon Tonal, certainly the Mexican people did not evidence high qualification for membership in a democracy.

We have had three of our presidents assassinated. We have never had a demonstration in favor of the murderer, either at his funeral or otherwise. It is singularly true that in two cases the assassin seemed to believe he was doing the will of a superior authority. Booth, on the stage of the Ford theater, after he shot the President, is reported to have uttered the words in Latin, "Thus always to tyrants!" In the third, that of Guitau, a political crank who imagined he would be rewarded by the leaders against Garfield.

Czolgaz, the assassin of McKinley, was a deluded anarchist believing he was doing his duty.

The Mexican people evidently have not yet come to believe in the orderly processes of government. One hundred thousand men and women expressed themselves orally and with vehemence as being in sympathy with this assassination. It is not a question of whether Obregon was right or whether Tonal was right, in their religious or political ideals. It was a question of whether we shall accomplish any ends through educational and peaceful methods, or by the gun and the dirk.

However, there is this to be said: the government with dignity, precision, and confidence, went about its work—had a trial in which the assassin was represented and permitted to give whatever defense he had—found him guilty, executed him according to the law.

It is to be sincerely hoped that the causes which gave rise to Tonal's inflamed mind may be removed, and that a spirit of justice and good will that are the basis of tranquility among all people shall be recognized as the ruling virtues in the Mexican Republic.

You can't tell which group elected Hoover until you see which one is maddest because it can't run things.—Kenosha (Wis.) News.

QUITE LIKELY SO

Arthur Brisbane writes that Edison and Lincoln would not have been the Edison and Lincoln that they came to be had they spent four years at Harvard University. This is quite likely the truth. Lincoln himself once said the colleges polished pebbles and dimmed diamonds. In the days when Lincoln and Edison were youths it was not so common for young men to go to college. Colleges were largely designed for those who were to enter the learned professions. Business men were not supposed to need the high education.

Still, it would not be wise to bank too much on such a statement as that made by Arthur Brisbane. Edison and Lincoln were very exceptional characters. Only a few arise in each generation, and to measure the worth of a college education on what might have been its effect upon such as these is not to appraise a college education at its real value. A good deal of water has gone over the dam since Lincoln and Edison were young. Most of our great discoveries and inventions have been made since that time. Science has gone a long way. Industry and trade are conducted on a much more colossal scale. Today a college education is much more necessary, and we have an idea that Edison at least has benefited much from the knowledge of college men.

SHOULD TAKE SOME LESSONS

The news dispatches say that the Prince of Wales is planning to give up the chase until the recovery of the King. The theory is that he makes this sacrifice to the end that he shall preserve his "neck" during this time when some of the duties of the ruler devolve upon him.

We wonder if it wouldn't help some if he attended a riding academy in the meantime. Maybe he could enjoy a contest of seeing how long, later, he would remain on a horse in a chase.

A REMARKABLE CONVENTION

Dr. Cadman in his radio talk on a recent Sunday took occasion to call the attention of his radio congregation to the Annual Convention of Ohio Pastors, at which 1400 ministers from 17 denominations registered, and for four days listened to the ablest men of the country, and considered most of the questions which the church is facing in the social, industrial, and political life of the world. Perhaps the most significant utterance of that convention is found in the report of the Commission on International Goodwill which was adopted without opposition after the fullest discussion unanimously. So far as we know, it is the first body of principles which has been laid down by a group representing the united church. Here are a few of the principles:

"That Christianity is an international religion, and that any national code of ethics or national attitude of mind that contravenes the principle of the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of man is subversive of the plain teachings of Jesus Christ our Lord.

"That states, like individuals, are subject to the higher laws of justice, friendliness and brotherhood as taught by Jesus Christ, and that national sovereignty cannot control in those domains of the spirit in which the Christian conscience and the mind of man illumined by the spirit of Jesus Christ is inviolate and supreme.

"That Christians should be good citizens, obeying the laws of the state and subject to its authority up to the point where obedience to man would be disobedience to God."

These principles go far. There will undoubtedly be those who see in these principles the lowering of the authority of the state, that it is the old fight between the supremacy of church and state. But a careful reading of the report will reveal that there is really no conflict. It recognized that there is a field in which the state is supreme. The report never mentions the authority of the church, as has been the case in the old fight between the church and state. The church does not presume to challenge the state in its realm. In fact, it honors the state as a divine institution. The emphasis is on the supremacy of the individual "conscience and the mind of man illumined by the spirit of Jesus Christ." These ministers do not presume to dictate to the state, but they reserve a sphere for themselves which the state must not invade.

This, after all, is an old state doctrine. It is embodied in the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States which scrupulously safeguard the individual in certain individual rights which even the authority of the state may not set aside, and which the courts will prevent the state from setting aside. It is one thing to make the church superior to the state. It is quite another thing to say that the state may not go beyond well-defined bounds in circumscribing men in their individual rights and in questions of conscience. The state may prevent an individual acting according to conscience when it violates the rights of others. A case in point is the action of the peculiar sect known as the Doukhobors in Vancouver who insist on going about naked because God created men naked. That is a social offense of which society must take notice. But when a man refuses to use a bayonet against his fellow man, or when he refuses to act under compulsion when his act wrongs another individual, the case is different.

We expect to hear a great deal of this report. One of the great peace societies of the country already is printing this report as a statement of principles on which it hopes to enlist all the Christians of the world.

Mr. Hoover to Please Latin Neighbors

Henry L. Stimson is Mr. Hoover's choice for Secretary of State, according to reliable information. Mr. Stimson, who is now governor-general of the Philippines, admits that he soon will leave the islands for America and that he is to accept another post from Mr. Hoover. This presumably is the position of Secretary of State.

Mr. Stimson has had cabinet experience. He also has had experience as a pacifier in Latin America. His successful mission in Nicaragua, as official representative of President Coolidge, in adjusting and conciliating conflicting political claims and ambitions down there attracted favorable attention throughout Latin America. Mr. Hoover realizes that he may have delicate situations in Latin America with which to deal during his term as President. He wants a man who first hand understands conditions down there—one who comprehends the susceptibilities of Latin America, and with the tact and ability to deal with any complicated situation which may arise. Mr. Stimson is regarded as an ideal man to deal with crises in the southern republics, and not get the United States into wrong light with its neighbors.

Mr. Stimson is a man of superb equipment in character, knowledge, experience and native ability to discharge creditably the responsible duties of the premier post in the cabinet—Secretary of State. Should this appointment go to him—as now seems probable—the choice should be received with satisfaction throughout the country.

The Iceless Car

Redlands Facts

The iceless refrigerator has reached that stage in its development where it is given serious consideration as a possible factor in the citrus industry. C. P. Easley, general manager for the local M. O. D., and F. C. Fitzgibbon, traffic manager for the same, have returned from the Chicago convention of fruit and vegetable shippers and express much interest in the demonstrations. The new system is not only a refrigerator but may be a heater also. For instance, a shipper may load a car with oranges in Southern California, where the climate is balmy and warm, and have the thermostat set at 45 degrees. The car will refrigerate the load down to that degree, then as it travels east into the wintry blasts of Maine, the system automatically will change from cold to heat, but the temperature of the car and its contents will remain unchanged. The expense thus far is somewhat more than icing, but it must be remembered that ice has been used many years and the method of handling systematized. The new iceless car is still in the experimental stage, although millions of pounds of frozen products have successfully been transported with it. Vegetable and fruit shippers have confidence that its development for practical uses is within sight.

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

DAVID AND GOLIATH

A whale is practically as large
As a camel boat or a barge.

A germ is so extremely small
That it cannot be seen at all.

And you would probably affirm
That if a whale should meet a germ

And had blood came between the two
The germ without the least ado

To some whale proof retreat would scot
And put an end to the dispute.

Instead of that, he stands his ground
And presently the whale is found

Keel upward on a rolling wave
And destined for a watery grave.

The while the germ drifts far away
To find another finny prey

And when at last it heaves in sight
To win perhaps another fight.

For bulk, though it commands respect
Is not a proof of intellect.

Yet it is only fair to state
That when the germ sets out to sate

His avid eager appetite
For any kind or sort of fight

He always brings his gang along
And it's a thousand billion strong!

CLOTHE FOR SCHOOL GIRLS

I am an assiduous reader of all the departments of the newspaper and have just read an article by somebody about the ideal wardrobe for a school girl.

It is a good article and advises against fussy clothes. But it does not go far enough.

Besides this a girl should have the entire eliminated as far as school girls are concerned? They will have plenty of time to think about clothes after school is over.

The more I reflect upon the problem the more sensible seems to me to be the suggestion that all school children wear uniforms. Some durable and sensible frock should be prescribed and thus the entire matter of clothing should be eliminated.

There should be no sport clothes, nor dress clothes, nor other clothes than the usual uniform.

The article suggests five kinds of dresses. A topcoat of tan tweed trimmed with collar or nutria, a jacket costume of navy blue with slip-on sweater in blues, a pleated skirt to match the jumper making the third costume.

A one-piece simple beige wool crepe frock, belted, and a two-piece jumper frock in two tones of blue, green or brown and beige.

Besides this a girl should have for her out-of-class special activities a dressy coat of cloth or velvet or fur for afternoon or evening, a dark, long-sleeved afternoon dress of crepe satin or velvet and an evening dress of satin, taffeta or chiffon.

How much simpler it would be to have a prescribed costume that every girl must wear and cut out the whole business. Two kinds of competition I never could endure. One kind is competition in girls' dresses and the other kind is competition in tombstones. Why should people compete during the formative period of life, enabling those who have plenty of money to dress better than those who do not, and why should people compete after they are dead by erecting elaborate mausoleums?

Certainly if democracy is a good thing it ought to rule in childhood and after death. Let the grown people parade and spread all they please, but save the young and the dead. There are certain schools which permit nothing but a uniform and these are to be commended. (Copyright, 1925, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

Thoughts On Modern Life

By Glenn Frank

JUDGING NEW THINGS

Whether the quality of the common life of a nation is to be a growing, a declining, or a static quality depends, in no small measure, upon the way in which its citizens judge new things, new tools, new theories.

In a recent address, Owen D. Young, who, with J. P. Morgan, is engaged in a consideration of Germany's post-war financial obligations, told this illuminating story:

The scene of the incident was the village of Van Hornesville, New York. Mr. Young's birthplace.

The time was 1905; it was a crisp October day.

Mr. Young's old friend, David Shaver, was driving down the street of the village in his one-horse lumber wagon. The horse was old. David was seventy-five.

"Standing on the bottom boards of his wagon, which had no seat, with his beard flying in the wind, David was a striking figure," said Mr. Young.

Suddenly and without warning a large red automobile came round a corner. It was one of the first motor cars to appear in Van Hornesville. It was a new thing to the old horse and it was a new thing to old David.

And Van Hornesville saw drama—

ized, then and there, the eternal difficulty the race has in adjusting itself to new things, new tools, new theories.

The old horse reared at the roar of the motor, and taking David and the wagon with him, leaped over the stone wall into a little hollow.

The driver stopped his motor, rushed down to old David, who lay entangled with horse and wagon and asked solicitously if he could do anything for old David.

"No," said David, "I think you've done enough for today."

Old David did not like motors; they were new and he had not come to understand them and their use; and their introduction had been quite inconvenient for him.

But ten years later old David was induced to ride in one, and he changed his mind about motors.

"This is the greatest ride of my life," said old David as he stepped out of the car.

When we face the fact of a new tool or a new theory, and find ourselves resenting it, it is wise to ask: "Am I objecting to its nature or merely to its newness, and is the inconvenience it is causing temporary or permanent?"

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

WHAT IS A CHILD?

If, as wise men say, one's actions bespeak one's thought, people have strange notions about children.

There are some who seem to think that a child is a stomach. It is to be fed whenever it shows signs of activity so that it will subside again into torpor, being well stuffed.

Others appear to believe that a child is a brain which is to be stimulated by every brand of learning known to the race. Nothing must go by lest this brain lose a fraction of its potential wealth. All mathematics, all literature, all science, applied or pure, all of everything including the Scandinavian, must be mastered. If an examination results in less than ninety-nine point seven, that brain is a failure.

To some unholly folk a child is a beast or a burden. He is to work in the fields until he drops. The law might protect him if he were an animal on the farm, but when he is but a child he is left to the mercy of those who need cheap help, and from dawn to dark he plants or thins or weeds. There is a special place reserved for the taskmasters of children in the realms of the unholly. I hope so.

"Isn't she a darling?" is the way another group regards childhood. Something dainty and tempting to the sentimental yearnings of the idle minded. Something to fondle and pet and spoil and cast out into outer darkness when the day of the reckoning comes.

A scant handful of earnest workers consider the child as a spiritual being. His body counts not at all. Laughter and play, mistakes, crudities, appetites, vagaries, a moral behavior—all this is outside and apart from the child as he is and must be cut out and burned and destroyed for his soul's sake. His body is to be ignored, mistreated, subdued and suppressed.

It is not possible to so simplify a child as to say he is this or he is that. He is everything. He is an expression of the Infinite, of the Creator. He is a thought of God. Within him are all the possibilities of race blended into a new form, the essence of which is different from any that has gone before. He is an experiment which may turn out to be highly successful from our point of view or highly otherwise. The great point is that we don't know.
